VOCABULARY

General

PREPARATION

Make one copy of the worksheet for each pair of students in the class. Cut out sections A and B as indicated.

TIME

45 minutes

PROCEDURE

- 1 Tell the students that they are going to read an article from a music magazine about Jon, a rock star. Point out that there is some information missing from the text that you are going to give them.
- Divide the class into Group A and Group B. Give one copy of 'Jon's story: Student A' to each student in Group A, and one copy of 'Jon's story: Student B' to each student in Group B.
- Ask the students to work with a partner from the same group for the first part of the activity. On the back of their worksheets they should all write the questions they need to ask to obtain the information missing from their text, numbering their questions as on their worksheet. For example:

(on the worksheet)

I was born in (1).......

(the students write)

1 Where was he born?

(on the worksheet)

...and lived with my parents in a small flat above a chemist's for (2)..... years.

(the students write)

2 How long did he live with his parents in a small flat above a chemist's?

While the students are doing this, be on hand to answer questions and offer help.

- When the students have finished writing questions, ask them to work with a partner from the other group. Student A and Student B should now sit facing one another and take it in turns to ask and answer questions in numerical order to find out the information missing from their own text. They should write the information in the blanks on their worksheet. The blanks are numbered to help the students remember whose turn it is to ask a question.
- When they have finished exchanging information, the pairs of students compare their completed texts, which should be identical.
