

More logical laws

Look at this 'logical law':

It always starts raining as soon as you decide to leave your umbrella at home.

In the table below, there are ten more 'logical laws', but the first part of each one is with the wrong second part. For example, You always think of something else to write in a letter as soon as the mechanic arrives to repair it doesn't make sense.

For each first part, find the correct second part. Write the numbers with the correct letters.

(A) 	You always think of something else to write in a letter	as soon as the mechanic arrives to repair it.	①
(B) 	You always see something marvellous to photograph	as soon as you decide to take a taxi.	②
(C) 	A machine which was not working always begins working perfectly	just after you have finished the film in your camera.	③
(D) 	The telephone always rings	when the cabin crew begin serving coffee.	④
(E) 	If you get out of the bath to answer the telephone, it always stops ringing	before the person who doesn't snore.	⑤
(F) 	An aeroplane always encounters turbulence	immediately after the guarantee expires.	⑥
(G) 	A toothache always gets better	while you're having a bath.	⑦
(H) 	A new car always breaks down	just before you reach it.	⑧
(I) 	In a couple, the person who snores always falls asleep	as soon as you have sealed the envelope.	⑨
(J) 	The bus you have been waiting for always arrives	as soon as you sit down in the dentist's chair.	⑩
