

Intermediate – Collaborate to Organise A Group Activity

A. Unfortunately, one of your classmates is leaving school. You want to arrange a surprise farewell party and get them a gift to remember you all. Decide what to buy and how and what to do to make the celebration special. Work together to plan and make it a success.	B. During the summer holidays you want to arrange a barbecue with school friends. Your parents say they are happy for you to use the garden. They will cook the food, but you must plan the event, get the food yourself, and clean up after it. They want to know when it is, who is coming, and what your plans are for food and clean up. Work together to make sure the barbecue is a success.	C. A group of students from your class wants to organise a charity run. Decide which charity you will run for, the amount of money you want to collect, and how to get sponsors for your team. Then agree on the best way to prepare and train together. Work as a group to make the run a success and collect as much money as you can.

Reflection Point

Group activities are more successful when everybody contributes ideas, has a specific job to do and does an equal share of the work.
