- 1 Jeff Kinney is at a book signing event for Partypooer, the 20th book in his Diary of a Wimpy Kid series. Every copy has the phrase "Over 300 million books sold" on it.
- 2 Before he first created Wimpy Kid – about the adventures of a student called Greg Heffley – Kinney was a software engineer. When they released it, it became a huge success.
- 3 Now 54 years old, Kinney is both very tall and very polite. And, for someone who has to be extremely rich, quite normal. He could quite easily be a friendly teacher, or someone who runs a small business.
- 4 Every new Wimpy Kid book is an event. For some authors, this may cause stress, but Kinney doesn't seem to mind. "I wouldn't call it pressure. It's a nice place to be."
- 5 As well as the books, he also writes the screenplays for all of Disney's Wimpy Kid movies. He says this is what keeps the books feeling fresh. "My first few books are just like a collection of jokes," he smiles. "I didn't care that much about telling a good story. It wasn't until book 12 that I started to get the hang of it."
- 6 If that wasn't enough, Kinney also works as a town planner. When his books started to take off, he used some of the money to open a bookshop in his hometown. And when the store became a success, he decided to branch out to the whole region.
- 7 "The downtown is very depressed," he says. "So what we're doing is we're building. We just finished a beer garden, and now we're gonna put in a pizza restaurant, and then we're going to create a town green and some other things too."
- 8 I ask him if he has a number of books he'd like to write before he moves on. "There were two goals; one was book 20, and the other was 300 million books in print. I didn't ever think beyond that. And now I've gotta say, what's next?"
- 9 "When you look at what I've created, it's a cartoon character," he goes on. "Cartoon characters go on for a long time. "I'm very lucky that I don't have to introduce myself to the public when I have a new book, and I like that better."
