Answer to question:

In the documents which don't have (etc.) at the end, the lists of words are complete. Document A shows all the Possessive Adjectives; document C shows all the Subject Pronouns; document F shows the two forms of the Indefinite Article; document I shows all the Possessive Pronouns; document P shows the only form of the Definite Article, and document Q shows all the Object Pronouns.

In the documents which have (etc.) at the end, the lists of words are just examples. For instance, document B shows four conjunctions, but there are others.
